>> FROM THE EDITOR
by Acolyte Rosaleah

I remember that the first thing I did when I stepped through the Promenade doors onto Cypress Street was to follow the sign pointing to NuYu to the left.

And promptly got lost. In fact, I wasn't sure I'd moved at all, as all I saw was (what I thought was) the same set of arches and the same signs as before. And, continuing in the same direction, what should I see but a store called, not NuYu, but V-Mart. Surely, I was lost for good ... hapless and mapless. ;)

Of course, I did finally find my way to NuYu ... walked all around the fountain several gazillion times ... found a suitable head ... said hello to everyone in sight ... and wondered ... now what?

What do I do now? is an oft-asked question on the streets of our fair city, right up there in popularity with How can I earn more tokens? Can I get a job?

As it happens, there is much to do here: more and more things to do, in fact, as the population grows and folks think of more different sorts of things to spend a pleasant afternoon or evening that's also just legend....

The truth is, on Caribe, people started to avoid the dragons. They would enter an area and people would stone, or be pulled away from the dream of Caribe. At one point, there was so much anti-dragon sentiment, that Dragons were banned from the spec races! (We know them as the Ghost Races here.) But the dragons were nice people: there were no denying that under their armoured skin body, from their head to the tip of their tails... they were nice and looked nice and tried hard. They would not move much to keep the wakenings and stonings down. They were just dragons who had no control over the curse. They also stopped trying to race as dragons, as if you crash everyone, including the host, you're not that effective a racer anyway, and so would change to a spider (the racing body of choice) before the games.

Eventually, they even stopped causing problems. Had the curse been lifted on them? Was it just the acceptance of the people around them that caused the change? We will never know the true reason behind it on Caribe. Here in Kymer, however, we do know that the Oracles will do all in their power to keep the streets of Kymer safe from nightmares and abrupt awakenings. It will take time and patience on our parts, but then this wonderful dream can help bring out the best in all of us.

We apologize that the heads will probably not be available for the Monthly Ghost Race Champ. We are also sad that those who have the head will now have to be careful about wearing it. However, they are now at least aware of the problem and I'm sure will take any steps necessary to make it less of a problem for others. And if a total cure is ever found, we can perhaps send it through the mist of time, and Khai's Black hole of space and give a permanent solution to those still caught on Caribe.... Or perhaps we did already and that is what lessened the curse on Caribe? Time Warp calculations always make my head spin. I will leave that for others to contemplate.

>> SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT
by Hotspot

It was supposed to be the final event of this Valentine week, the great show-down. It was supposed to be a happy day for all of us; for one Avatar, Necrolyte SunRay White Rose, it was not.....

White Rose was hosting a teddy-bear race on this evening. She was going to hide somewhere in the city, and the others had to chase her for special prizes. I am sure she put much effort into this and hoped to make it a great event for all of us. She wanted to give away three prizes, two panda-heads and one teddy-bear-head. There was a little misunderstanding about the rules, not worth talking about. When the race was over, something happened, something we all should think about.

White Rose was attacked with all sorts of ESP's, some angry, some rude. About not being able to explain the rules correctly and complaints about the prizes. To most of us, a simple panda-head was not enough-- "What a stupid prize," "Don't you have something better?" "Rip-Off," they said. Even though I didn't say it out loud, I must admit, I was disappointed about my panda too.

And now I ask myself: Do we always have to get BIG prizes? Why can't a small thing be enough? Why do we NEED prizes anyway? Why not just have fun, even without a prize? On this day, we ALL (not counting me out) made someone very sad. Someone who tried her best to make us happy. Someone who worked very hard for this event. On this day, reality came to Kymer, the reality that money and valuables rule our world.

In the name of all who didn't think about what they were saying, I would like to say SORRY, White Rose. We regretted our words as soon as they were spoken out, but somehow it was too late.

A one of himself ashamed Avatar, Hotspot.

>> SEEN ON THE STREETS
by Rosaleah with Marianne G

Those pink baby_bears at the Meditation Park vendroid have been finding their way into the hearts and pockets of many a Kymerian, in spite of their high 700-token cost. We noticed that Holli Wood's pink bear matched her outfit perfectly ... though whether the outfit was purchased to match the bear or the bear to match the outfit is a question we didn't ask. And we saw that Chris' Lover gave his pink bear to Chris on the moon. This wasn't a case of a matching outfit, however; of course, the two Chris's do match each other: they're both athletic blue crickets, dressed in green. Cool colors, eh?

Word is the pies in the new vendo come from Teresias, the baker, but the BBQ Chicken comes from Vaserius! As for the Kymer Country Comfort, there is rumor of a still below the temple--the clanging occasionally heard is NOT the hot water heater, but that still. We've not heard on just who is actually operating the still, but taste testers agree that the Comfort from that bottle warms them up more than Red Eye, and causes very nice dreams!

We spotted Stimrod D'Naleor carrying his toy sailboat around with him, no doubt in search of a pond to sail it in. We recommended the fountain, even though we've never seen any boats in it. Perhaps the fountain dragons would object?

Isn't the Rose Arbor in Meditation Park the perfect place to take photographs of yourself and your sweetheart? The roses are in such perfect bloom! Spotting a gardener gazing up at Cupid the other night, we asked if there was a secret to his success with the roses. His reply: elephants. Elephants? Wouldn't elephants _trample_ roses? The gardener just smiled and winked. <F8><F8>

Have you met the identical twins, Tim and Tom Cheshire yet? You'd expect them to be cats, wouldn't you? But, no, they aren't feline ...

BLD Quackers was seen at the picnic sporting her new Bloodline colors! The duck has gone to bloodline red skin and fur with a black bow to tie it all together. She looks smashing!

We hear that Passions's own passion, Brimble, has been banned from the new vendo for health concerns. However, Passion was seen at the picnic relenting enough to give Brimble a slice of pizza to munch on.

Was that an ethereal elf we spotted closely examining the statue of Cupid in the Rose Garden? Possibly that was a look of envy we saw cross his face over the fact that Cupid is in possession of a fine bow. Of course, our Elf friend is not the one to deprive Cupid of his bow, not just because that would be stealing, but also out of consideration for the fact that such an attempt might dislodge the small amount of ... errr covering ... that Cupid has in the way of clothing.

Congratulations to Duncan Dragnslayer, who won a staring contest with Cammie just outside the Park. None else would take him on after that display of open-eyed derring-do. Positively mesmerizing!

And to end on a romantic note, I will but briefly mention the sight of Duckolyte Happy Downunder and Darkhorse in their own staring contest ... gazing out at the stars visible through the StarWay window ... Duckolyte Happy Downunder clasping a gold key in her hand. Whether the key to Darkhorse's heart or a key to happiness we don't know; whichever it was, it was most decidedly love-ly.

>> A THANK YOU
by Jaliko

What a great week it has been for me. This World is very addicting and you are not helping me in anyway of breaking this habit :). My 20 hours got burned up this week, Thanks to all of you.

I received some gifts this week from some great people and I would like to thank them soooo much for their generosity. If everyone acted in this manner (and many do), the thieves would not get us down. It is great to see that we outweigh the bad guys.

First : I posted a note in the forum stating that I had accidentally lost my Xmas Teddy. It was not stolen, and I don't know when or where I lost it, but it was gone. I was willing to buy the recently discontinued Teddy from anyone that offered. I figured a price under 1000T was acceptable. Was I ever wrong. People were selling their excess Teddies for 2000-3000T each. I could not afford that at the time. So I figured that someday (maybe in spring), I would buy my replacement. Then Indica replied to my note and said that she has a Teddy for me. I knew I couldn't afford it, so I did not bother to ask the price. Indica showed up at Bingo, I told her I could not afford it at the time, but thanks for the offer. She GAVE me the teddy no questions asked. I could not believe it. My luck this week has been incredible. Thanks again for the Teddy, Indica. I promise to keep him snug with me. I will definitely pay you back for this wonderful favor. Now I can go to the picnic with my new pet.

Second: Max Raven stopped by Bingo Madness. He was a little short of cash and wanted to play a 100T round. I had a few tokens on me and a couple more in the ATM. So I put up the tokens for him to play. Max in return gave me a Fern!!!!!! I could not believe that he would do such a thing but he did, because that's the kind of guy he is. Max is always surprising me. When I first arrived in the World, (EEEEK My Newbie Days), Max walked by and gave me an Analyst head. I then saved up for my Puppy head and will never forget Max for his kindness. So in return for the Fern that was not expected, I put up for the rest of Max games. I even put in for the 500T round. I didn't have enough to pay the winner of the 500T round without stopping by the ATM. But overall it worked out great. Thanks again for the Fern, Max. I will take good care of it and make sure it gets its vitamins.

>> EUROPEAN GHOST RACING RESULTS (2/16/96)
by Holger

My apologies again for cancelling the European Ghost Races on 02-09-96...

The 3rd week's racing of the month of February has been very successful again. Because of the cancellation of the 2nd week's races we had many GREAT prizes last Friday and of course a lot of excellent participants as well.

NOTE: We found out that this month's championship prize (the Dragon Head) has been crashing people and NOT only the owner but the Oracles of Morpheus are working on this problem, please read the article ">> CURSE OF THE DRAGON" which you will find in this issue of the Kymer Clarion for more information.

The results of last Friday's Ghost Racing are as following:

Winning one race each were Christopher Storm getting a baby teddy, "Cut-Me-Own-Throat Dibbler" winning some good-smelling roses and Utopia, who won a black rose head (luckily we can change the color of the rose heads <G>). MyKey took home a nice fern and LumMoose-Kymer Guardian won a neat prize in the 11th race.

Avatron was able to snatch two items (2 lovely heart chests !!!), Mivo got a Lacey_Heart_Head and a valentine and Soltron2 won the white rose head and 150 Ts.

Avatars who got smaller amounts of tokens were Chief Duckolyte Renegade, SunRay B'elanna Torres, Duckolyte Markus J. Doe, Simon, Rune, Sturgy and Hotspot.

Mivo's on top of the scores so far (way to go !!) followed closely by MyKey.

Thanks to all for playing once again and I hope to see you all again next week (Fridays, 11 am WAT, outside Isle Caribe).

by Imagination

On Sunday, February 11, GermanGiant hosted a Bingo game that had 40 participants. That broke some records. It also broke the record for longest time spent making bets. 40 MINUTES!!!

I know you're thinking "I wish there was a faster, easier way to pay." Well now there is. Just get a Phantabus Credit account. With Phantabus Credit, or the PAC, you can bet for games by esp, buy a Pick-3 Lotto or Funraffle ticket, and have Honor take your picture without ever taking out a single token. Best of all, you can even pay for some things BY E-MAIL. That's better for people who don't want to go inworld and look for whomever they have to pay. For the rest of February and all of March, there is no interest rate so you can try out the PAC for FREE! Try it now because in April, the interest rate will be back up to only 12%, plus you get a free Funraffle ticket for the drawing right after the billing period ends. There's so much you can do with the PAC, and the list of things keeps growing. So what are you waiting for?

Contact Imagination at 76724,3017 and I'll send you more information. Phantabus Credit, "The Better Token".

Schedule of Events in Phantabus
Week of February 21 through February 27
All Times in WAT (Pacific Standard)

Attention Gamers and Hosts!

Where do you get your Schedule of Events? Did you know that the Kymer Clarion now has the most accurate schedule in all the publicly available publications?

If you don't believe me, count them yourself! There are 44 games and events listed on this week's schedule for Wednesday, February 21 through Tuesday, February 27. No other publication available to all Kymerians can make that claim!

Even if hosts do not submit their event listings to the Kymer Clarion (to 71273,373), that doesn't mean their events don't get listed. The staff of the Clarion is dedicated to bringing you the most accurate schedule possible. We monitor the WA Community Forum carefully to make certain that everything that's going on in Phantasus during our publication period is picked up and reflected on our schedule.

So be sure to tell all your friends that the Kymer Clarion is THE source for games and events!
