As you can expect, recent changes in Editors has us short of staff at the moment. And you can help! We'd like to take applications for volunteers of those who would like to work for this publication. One opening is for a Schedule Co-ordinator. Someone who's only job is to get that schedule of events up to date for us. Contact any of us inworld or at 72007,221 and thanks for being patient.

We have some double event results, and some results from our regular contributors we haven't received yet, but will post when we do. This publication does not go to print without your help, and we appreciate all those who send us the results of their events, advertisements for their events, etc. It's a win win situation! We get info for our paper, and you get publicity for your event.

As any new developments occur, we'll be sure to keep you up to date. Also want to note, that while we don't have a written story on the wedding of Acolyte's Zippy and Cerchen (lovely ceremony), we do have a picture of it being posted to the library, so take a look.

Enjoy the dream, I will!

Menolly's Puzzle Corner

By Menolly
-----

Here is the answer to last week's puzzle:

Basil	German	white	brisk	lavender
Connie	Bulgarian	red	vibrant	saffron
Gloria	Spanish	white	challenging	sandalwood
Hector	Italian	white	cheeky	banana
Monty	French	red	rumbustious	leather

Explanation:

The taste which Basil claimed to find in his white wine was not banana and could not have been saffron (clue 1); it could not have been sandalwood, for that flavour was discerned by a woman (clue 2), or leather, which was the one Monty experienced (clue 3), so it must have been lavender. Thus his white wine could not have been the Italian, (clue 6). The French red was tasted by a man, but not by Hector (clue 5), so it could only have been tasted by Monty. Clue 6 indicates that the 'cheeky' Italian wine was also tasted by a man, who must therefore have been Hector. It was in a red wine that the taster detected saffron (clue 1), so it must have been the Bulgarian and thus, from the same clue, Monty must have called the French red 'rumbustious'. It is now clear that the taster of the Bulgarian red must have been a woman, and since, as we know, she did not find a sandalwood flavour in it, she must have called it 'vibrant' (clue 2). The German wine was not found 'challenging' (clue 4), so that must have earned the description 'brisk', and by elimination, the Spanish white must have been dubbed 'challenging'. Connie could not have tasted the German wine or used the term 'challenging' (clue 4), so her wine must have been the Bulgarian. Gloria did not call her wine 'brisk' (clue 3), so must have called it 'challenging' and so must have tasted the Spanish, in which she must have detected sandalwood (clue 2). By elimination, Basil must have tasted the German white and Hector must have found a banana flavour in his Italian.

Now for this week's puzzle:

Three mathematical ones for you this week

1) Auntie Nellie

-----
Auntie Nellie decided to leave £1000 amongst her 5 nieces, but her last will and testament specified that the girls had to divide the money according to their ages, so that each niece received £20 more than the next niece younger to her. How much did the youngest of the 5 nieces receive?

2) Inflation

During the 4 years of my membership of the Federated Anti-Inflation League, my annual subscriptions totalled £120. In the second year the subscription was £3 more than in the first year; in the third it was £2 more than the second; and in the fourth year £6 more than in the third. How much was the subscription for each year?

3) Muggers Money

Two English gentlemen, Mr. Ascot and Mr. Berkshire, with £100 and £48 respectively, having to make a journey through a lonely part of the country, decided to travel together for purposes of company. As they were walking through a wood a gang of youths jumped out and threatened them. The gang leader was satisfied with taking twice as much from Mr. Ascot as from Mr. Berkshire and left to Mr. Ascot 3 times as much as to Mr. Berkshire. How much was taken from each?

Please feel free to work these out in dollars if you prefer!

Answers next week.

STAR WARS SHOWDOWN INTRODUCED

By Grand Admiral Darien

---

Hello Dear Kymerians and fellow Star Wars fans! I would like to introduce you to a new game show! It's "The Star Wars Showdown!" The trivia, the trickery, and the triumphs are words you will hear often while playing Star Wars Showdown! This game is modeled after the TV game show "The Price is Right." You bid on a item, if you are closest without going over, you get a chance to win a rare prize such as ferns, heads, and paints. But before you can get your hands on your prize you have to get three (3) out of five (5) questions right. If you succeed in that task then you will be sent to the "Trilogy Triumph" floor. This is where you can win the grand prize.

On the floor you will face-off against the other winners. You will have one (1) minute to answer 5 questions before the other winners do. I hope you fans of the Star Wars Trilogy will come out and try to clean out the house! Hope to see you there! The first game is scheduled for Saturday, June 29 at 8 PM WAT. There will be 5 rounds in one game.

Grand Admiral Darien

*Each prize is rare, if the game is popular than the game will get special prizes such as engraved items and very rare heads.

*This game is sponsored by Acolyte Milen and SunRay Mage Darien-GK

*Each question will be from the movies itself not the books, or audio cassettes.

MONDAY GHOST RACING - JUNE 10

By Acolyte Serena

---

There are three weeks being reported here this time. Happens like that sometimes. We did have a tiny incident on the 10th, and the person involved is banned from all Ghost Racing and CHAOS, Inc and possibly other events until restitution is made and their suspension is served.

Getting on to the good stuff, however, we had some fast racers!

Winners of one race each were Arley, for non-vendo pink paint, Kira won 50T (she's getting faster all the time!), and SexyCat22 Hispaniolyte won 100 T in one of the second chance races.

Winning two each were CyberMagel for 100T (he always did go for tokens), JayVee for a fern and 100T (he must be the one practicing with Kira), Necrolyte Xian for a snowball and 100T, Actionizer for flowers in a vase and a Non-vendo Blue painted Rose head, and finally, Aule for 150T.

Congrats to all my racers, and remember, every Monday at 5 PM WAT in the turf named Dreamland, be there with your racing sneaks on.

MONDAY GHOST RACING - JUNE 17

By Acolyte Serena

---

They came to race, and when the dust settled, CyberMagel and Necrolyte Xian were still tied in first place for the month.

Winning one each were Kira for a Frosty White Spray can, Actionizer I won some non-vendo blue paint, Damia won a cowgirl head (my personal favorite) but this had non-vendo steel hair. Very distinguished look if I do say so myself.

Winning two races each were CyberMagel for 100T, Briar Hamadryad won 100T and a chill pill (love their small size), Tom Brainless won 150T, and Necrolyte Xian won a fern and 50T.

Which brings us to the last one for the month..... (which normally you wouldn't see printed till next week)

MONDAY GHOST RACING - JUNE 24

By Acolyte Serena

---

GIF for this Story - GR0696.GIF

Here's how the races looked for this week....

- 1) JayVee - 50T
- 2) Necrolyte Xian - Hot Chocolate
- 3) CyberMagel - 50T
- 4) Kira - Dry_Sea_Moss
- 5) Necrolyte Xian - 50T
- 6) CyberMagel - Valentine Heart
- 7) Actionizer - 50T
- 8) Davy - Non-Vendo Red Metal Head
- 9) Kira - Chill Pill
- 10) Darkhorse - 100T

Which gave us a race off between CyberMagel and Necrolyte Xian. The winner was CyberMagel who took the engraved smiley head. As a reminder, to insure fairness to all, any who have done the hack patch thing, to make it so you can grab items without walking to them, don't bother to come racing unless you have it disabled. It is not fair for anyone to have an advantage such as that, and if necessary, to insure it's not being used, we can turn every race into a head race with head race rules which will insure us being able to see anyone using the patch.

 FRIDAY GHOST RACING - JUNE 21

By Darkhorse
 -----

Hiya all <f6>. Despite the fact that 2 of my prizes were stolen this weeks races were very hard on the racers. A lot of fast people showed up and made it quiet difficult for the leaders to win. Join us for the last race next week on Friday the 28th 11 am WAT in the turf Dreamland for the final round of racing for the month of June. Who will be crowned Champion? Will it be Sidekick who holds the lead? Or will side have a bad day and LumMoose catch up? Either way it should be very exciting so be there....

NOTICE: An avatar with no head wearing the medium build female body with original colors stole both a Hot chocolate and a pink valentine. The first time her name was Avatar 4988. She logged off and came back on after changing her name to Didu and stole the Pink Valentine. This avatar is banned from the ghost races until she 1) Makes restitution and 2) serves a suspension determined by the hosts. Due to the fact that this avatar is possibly new, we would like to take this opportunity to ask our regular to inform us of any names this person uses, and also encourage them to have her contact one of the hosts to open discussions on her actions.

CHAOS, Inc - June 20

By Marianne G

---

Not many showed up for my CHAOS version of Jeopardy Trivia. I'm so disappointed! Course, that did mean more of the pot for those who made it to the end of the Game.

CHAOS, Inc is held every Thursday at 5 PM WAT (8PM EDT) in the turf named Dreamland. Just take one of the elevators in the turf building up to that address. It is a place where new games are developed, old games are given new twists and life, and no one knows what the hostess is up to. As it is different every time, come early for instructions. Hostesses are Marianne G and Acolyte Milen.

We had Anais, Kira and Piemur to answer questions on Kennedy, Beatles, England, Disney and Stars and Star Trek. The frog with the most answer, coming away with 3200 points was Piemur! Kira ended with 1100 points, and Anais, (who had to leave early) had 500.

You think it was killing off the players the other game that kept them away? Naw... CHAOS players are tough! A little death can't hurt them.

MatchMAYkers Date!

Mistweave

---

EDITORS NOTE: In May, the Bloodline ran an event one night called Match MAYkers, based on the old TV Show, The Dating Game. We kept the contestants up in clouds till they could be seperated, so no one knew who was asking the question, or answering, (as they were relayed by the hosts) until the choice of date were made. We asked the contestants that played to write up their experiences, and following is the second we are presenting in the CLARION. We are doing them in the order they came in, if you haven't sent yours in yet, please do...

Match MAKers Date by Mistweave

Drat! The gentle reminder came through ESP of my commitment to this event. Things were already well in progress when I arrived. Knowing how busy a host gets during an event, I let Marianne know I'd arrived and settled into the clouds to watch. While watching, I realized I had no idea of my place in the scheme of this event and made the assumption that I would be on a panel of the 3 hidden contestants questioned. After some confusion I was informed that I would be questioning a hidden panel of 3, that I got to choose a date. Oh butterflies!!! That meant I needed to have questions ready!

With a leap of hope, I discovered there were not enough contestants to finish the game. Ah ha! I would not need questions, I could just smile and go home having watched and enjoyed the game. Marianne G is an excellent hostess, and will not have her plans diverted! <laughing> With the help of her co-hosts they began a determined ESP search for the additional contestants needed to finish.

Match MAKers is build around the blind date idea, so I could not very well ESP anyone I knew and say, "Hey come play and maybe I will pick you as my blind date!" I did check to see if anyone I knew was inworld, then focused on creating questions to ask. Ah the blessings of those minutes to ponder!

The 3 bachelors (ghosts) were taken off into another room. I unghosted next to Marianne and began to ask my questions. My knees were knocking I was so nervous!! The butterflies in my stomach had turned into stampeding herd .. who was back there hidden? Slowly ... ever so slowly the answers to my questions began arriving.

My hat is off to the 3 bachelors that participated. Each of them had wonderful answers and played the game well. As the moment of my decision arrived I wondered if the whole world could hear my knees knocking! It was very difficult to make a choice! Decision finally made, I got to meet the two I did not choose for my date. Both of them known to me - great guys that anyone would have been lucky to go on a date with. Great sports for playing.

The moment of discovery, I could hardly breath, knees knocking, butterflies flying, then poof, my date appeared. I knew I had chosen well, and a big smile split my face. Our date was to be on an island beach, and we were escorted to this secret locale.

The scent of fresh roses wafted up from the vases set strategically amidst the tropical ferns on this beach. Champagne sat chilling (soda too), for our refreshment. Hearts decorated the edge of the beach, as well as chests to pack away all our wondrous prizes it. The sand glistened pale and warm against the depth of the blue water. The care that had gone into creating this little beach was apparent, and we thanked our escort with bemusement.

Knees knocking loudly again, I almost panicked being alone on this beautiful beach with my date. Blind dating arrrrgh! A perfect gentleman, my date poured champagne and we both relaxed as we talked of simple things. We build sand-castles of dreams in the sand and discovered more about each other. Suddenly we noticed the hours had slipped away. Since the beach was ours to share for an entire week, he wrote our names in the sand as we parted each smiling.

Duckolyte Benefit Auction - June 12

By Disco Duck

The Duckolyte auction was a great success with many rare and unique items being sold. We had a wonderful guest hostess this week, Clover, who finally got a Clue!, and even that cost her a pretty gold token. Actually it was 42,000 of them. We had some very happy people who got their hands on rare items such as a Monster head, a Skull Ornament, and of course the now infamous Clue! Congratulations to all of our high bidders. We thank you for your patronage and hope you will stop by next week, Wednesday, June 19th for the next edition of the Duckolyte Benefit Auction. We'll have more rare and unique items for you to gobble up, this and every Wednesday night at 6:00PM WAT at the Duck Hunt (Turf).

Duckolyte Ghost Races - June 16 By Disco Duck, Wing, Special Projects

Even the most efficient and rollicking of Krewes can find that a float gets swamped now and then, and the Krewe of the Duckolytes is no exception.

On Sunday, June 16, a violent thunderstorm kept LumMoose, Duckolyte Senior Wing, away from his modem and drying some very wet feathers. Therefore, Duckolyte Ghost Racing could not be held as scheduled. The Krewe sincerely apologizes to all the aficionados of this time-honored Kymer sport, and supporters of the Duckolyte event.

LumMoose reports that his feathers are now dry, preened, and that he will once again host Duckolyte Ghost Races on Sunday, June 23, at 7:00 a.m. WAT in the turf Duck Hunt.

Duckolyte Shell Game - June 16      By Disco Duck, Wing Special Projects

On Saturday, June 15, in the turf "Duck Hunt", the new, eagerly-awaited Duckolyte Shell Game was ably hosted by Brains, Wing Commander, co-hosted by Askani, Duckolyte Senior Wing, with LumMoose, Duckolyte Senior Wing providing security and fifteen Duckolytes acting as Shell Shills and the Acolyte Staff filling in so that some of the Duckolytes could play at least one round.

The Duckolyte Shell Game is hide and seek with a twist. The Shell Shills pass the locked prize chests among themselves, trying to confuse the gathered ghosts as much as possible. There are two objects of the game:

- 1) Keeping track of which Shell Shills are holding the chests when the host calls "time"; and
- 2) Finding and tagging on to a Shell Shill somewhere in Kymer.

The game is played in Waves, and the winner of each wave is qualified to compete in a Championship Round. The winner of every Wave selects one of the locked prize chests, which is opened by the host in view of all the gathered ghosts. Some of the prize chests contain rare items, and some contain current vendo merchandise, but every prize is worth several hundred tokens. Some of the rare items contained in the prize chests have a value of several thousand tokens.

The winners of each Wave are also qualified to compete in one of the Championship Rounds for some rare and very special prizes.

Following is a list of the Wave Winners and the prizes contained in the chests they selected:

KOA-Lacey Heart Head
Xian-Panda Head
Leadman-Cathead
Sir Jer's-Duckhead (painted rare blue)
CyberMage-Orange Chest, snowball
SwartFuchs-Wendy Head
EdelFuchs-Rose Head (rare pink)
Pagan-BoomBox
Ropes-Werner Head (rare black & blue)
Swiftess-Rosehead (rare black)
Renegade-Flowers
Kira-Sack with rare Green Head & Body paints)
LumMoose-Heart Chest with Valentine & Snowball
PowerP - Rose Head (rare steel)

Following are the winners of the Championship Rounds, the chests they selected, and the rare prize the chest contained:

Ropes, Duckolyte Wing selected Chest #2 which contained an engraved Lightbulb Head.

Edelfuchs selected Chest #1 which contained heart chest packed with a rare-gold rose head, rare-gold body paint, a valentine, and a snowball.

Xian selected Chest #3 which contained a heart chest, fern, lacy heart head with rare-painted lace, rare body paint, and hot chocolate

LumMoose selected Chest #4 which contained a heart chest, rare-blue rose head, rare blue body paint, and a snowball.

With its treasure trove of prizes and fabulous, frenetic fun, all players of the Duckolyte Shell game were all winners, even if they didn't take home a prize.

Be sure to join The Krewe of the Duckolytes in the turf Duck Hunt on Saturday, July 20, for the next installment of the Duckolyte Shell Game. Watch the Inworld Schedule section of the WorldsAway Community Forum and the CLARION for announcement of the new game time.

Magier2890's Secret Contest Results

By Magier2890

The winner of this weeks Secret Contest is *W84ME* and RAJA. Once a week at a time and date of my choosing, I place a gift box somewhere in the city. This may contain tokens, a new head, a birdcage, or some other prize. The first person to find the box gets to keep the prize and the box.

The two winners agreed to split the prize.

>>**|**< POETRY >>**|**<<

Since the passing of some important avatars I have written this poem. This is a serious issue of MK's Poetry Corner.

Farewell

Farewell to the bushy clump close to the river
And the flags where the butter-bump hides in forever;
Farewell to the weedy nook, hemmed in by waters;
Farewell to the miller's brook and his three bonny daughters;
Farewell to them all while in the Realworld I lie-
In the realworld a thrall sees nought but the sky.

Shut out are the green fields and birds in the bushes;
In the realworld nothing builds, blackbirds or thruses.
Farewell to the old mill and dash of the waters,
To the miller and, dearer still, to his three bonny daughters.

In the nook, the larger burdock grows near the green willow;
In the flood, round the moor-cock dashes under the billow;
To the old mill farewell, to the lock, pens, and waters,
To the miller himself, and his three bonny daughters.

* In remembrance of Acolyte Libra and SunRay Dream Keeper.
